

REMOVE

Removes an object instance.

A removed object will be removed from the database as a result of the flush operation.

MERGE

Merges the state of a detached object into the persistence context of this `ObjectManager` and returns the managed copy of the object.

The object passed to merge will not become associated/managed with this `ObjectManager`.